LIVES OF 450,000,000 CHINESE AT STAKE

THE SPANISH FRONT British Ships Released

London, Sept. 13.
The Spanish Government claim successes on the Aragon front where they repulsed four insurgent attacks on the northern front. The insurgents assert the Government attack on Aragon was repulsed and advances made on other sectors.
The British tanker, Bumford, which was taken by the insurgent cruiser Centa on Friday, was released to-day with the cargo of oil for the Spanish Government untouched.
The two British vessels Kendiestone Castle and Molton, released after representation was made to the insurgent authorities by the British Ambassador, Sir Henry Chilton, are now on the high seas. The Kendiestone Castle is on her way to England while the Molton is loading cargo at a Spanish port and not expected in London till after a fortnight.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

"China Unconquerable" Madame Chiang's Important Role In Administration

Long, lean Marshal Chiang Kai-shek is ostensibly the supreme power in China to-day. But every Chinese knows that the former Manchurian Empire's real rulers are the Soong family, foremost of whom is smart, Westernised Madame Chiang Kai-shek.
As the undeclared war between China and Japan entered its second month it was the Soongs who did China's important business by telephone and private meeting.
It was Madame Sun Yat Sen, eldest Soong daughter and widow of the Chinese Republic's first President, who announced to the Press that China was unconquerable, could defeat Japan single-handed, but in the coming war would not have to fight alone.
Fifty years ago Charlie Soong was a penniless emigrant in Baltimore, but his three daughters and three sons now fill the key positions in the Chinese Republic and control, through Madame Chiang Kai-shek's husband, the destinies of 400,000,000 sin-eyed people.
Himself the most outstanding administrator in the great revolutionary movement of 1911 which resulted in the Republic, ex-sailor Soong became secretary to President Sun Yat Sen, whereupon in true Oriental fashion he set out to provide for his family.
One daughter became the President's wife, another married Marshal Chiang, then rising leader of the Cantonese Army, and the third wedded Nanking's Finance Minister Dr. Kung. Two of Soong's sons became the Orient's leading bankers and finance experts; the third is Minister for Commerce in Dictator Chiang's Nanking capital.

MIGHTY TRIO

The revolutionary daughters of Charlie Soong were not content to retire after marriage into the customary seclusion of their husband's families. Defying convention, they took an active part in national affairs and became the three most powerful women in the East.

A pillar of strength to the old United Front of 1926, Madame Sun Yat Sen has remained in close contact with the rulers of China, and in Communist circles her name carries a prestige which makes her opinion respected.

Educated in America at Wesleyan College, Georgia, serious-minded Mrs. Soong concentrated first on medicine, later on politics.
Once so modest that she refused to be attended by a male doctor, the devout, fragile feminist later outraged Chinese opinion by declining to go into retirement on the death of Sun Yat Sen.

But so great was her influence that shortly afterwards she was elected an Executive member of the Kuomintang, and throughout the period of reaction remained one of the few Chinese who could still defy Marshal Chiang, even flay him publicly when he dickered with the Japanese.

FULL TEXT OF CHINA'S APPEAL TO LEAGUE COUNCIL JAPAN INTOXICATED BY LUST FOR CONQUEST: WANTON DESTRUCTION

GENEVA, SEPTEMBER 13: THE CHINESE GOVERNMENT'S APPEAL TO THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS WAS LODGED BY DR. WELLINGTON KOO, CHINESE AMBASSADOR TO FRANCE. THE APPEAL STATES:—

"Under instructions from my Government I have the honour to invite you to take cognisance of the fact that Japan has invaded China and is continuing the invasion with all her army, navy and air force. It is aggression against the territorial integrity and existing political independence of China, a member of the League of Nations, and clearly constitutes a case to be dealt with under Article Ten of the Covenant. The grave situation which the Japanese aggression has thus created also falls within the purview of Article Eleven of the same instrument and therefore is a matter of concern to the whole League. For the facts of the case I beg leave to refer to statements which the Chinese Government communicated on August 30 and September 12 to the League for the information of members of the League and the Advisory Committee set up under resolution of the Assembly on February 24, 1933, adopted in virtue of Article Three of the Covenant.

"In view of Japan's present relations to the League and her action in China the Chinese Government hold without prejudice to the continuing validity and binding effect of all decisions hitherto taken by the Assembly Council in the Sino-Japanese conflict that Article Seventeen of the Covenant is also applicable. In the name of my country I hereby invoke the application of Articles Ten, Eleven and Seventeen of the Covenant and appeal to the Council to take such action as may be appropriate and necessary for the situation under the said Articles.—Wellington Koo."

A memorandum accompanying the appeal deals with developments in the Sino-Japanese situation since August 30 including the political and military aspects of the fighting and declaration of the naval blockade. It also refers to alleged Japanese bombing of red cross units and indiscriminate attacks on non-combatants and wanton destruction of educational and cultural institutions. "The law of morality must give place to violence and anarchy. Intoxicated by the lust for conquest the invader is bent on ruthless slaughter and wanton destruction. The lives of 450,000,000 are at stake and civilization and security of the whole world are in the balance."—Reuter.

Japanese Announce Capture Of Civic Centre

Shanghai, Sept. 13: The Japanese officially announce the capture of the Civic Centre or Chinese Municipal buildings a little less than two miles west of the Kiangwan Race Course and claim that the Chinese have begun almost a general withdrawal. As the Japanese infantry pushed on towards the Civic Centre from Xianghong and Yangtszepoo, heavy artillery subjected the Chinese positions to intensive bombardment and looted their lethal loads. At the same time Japanese warships in the river blazed into action. Meanwhile the Chinese poured heavy reinforcements into the Kiangwan sector about two miles east of the Civic Centre ready for a determined stand against the Japanese.—Reuter.

CONFISCATION OF JAPANESE PROPERTY INVESTMENTS URGED

Numerous Chinese public bodies are telegraphing Nanking echoing the plea of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce in Shanghai for the confiscation of Japanese property investments in China "in retaliation of Japan's aggression and destruction of Chinese institutes of learning."—Reuter.

CHINESE MASSING COUNTER- ATTACK ON YANGHONG- YUEHPU

Shanghai, Sept. 13.
The Chinese troops which withdrew from the Yuehpu and Yanghong areas late yesterday afternoon, are reported to be reassembling in preparation for a counter-attack on the two areas in unison.

Detailed reports of the fighting describe the losses on both sides as extremely heavy.
The Japanese are also reported to be busy collecting themselves to meet the imminent Chinese counter-movements.—

PARTIAL CLOSURE OF PEARL RIVER

Old British Naval Sloop Submerged

Canton, September 13.
The partial closure of the Pearl River took place this afternoon when the Chinese towed the old hulk of the Marathon, which was once a Royal Navy sloop, and two cement-filled junks down to the second bar about six miles below Whampoa and sunk them in the shallow water there. A narrow channel has been left, open through which vessels can be taken through. Passengers on the Fatsan from Hong Kong this afternoon passed close to the submerged vessels the hulks and deck of which are partially above water.—Reuter.

AFTERMATH OF TYPHOON

Chinese Fishermen Found At Sea

Singapore, Sept. 13.
A P. and O. liner has picked up five Chinese fishermen seventy-five miles from Hong Kong.
The men were without food and water for five days and stated that seven members of the same junk died while 40 junks with crews numbering 450 were lost when the fishing fleet was struck by a typhoon.—
Reuter's Bulletin Service.

TELEGRAMS TO CHINA

As will be seen from an advertisement appearing elsewhere, private telegrams exchanged between Hong Kong and the interior of China, in foreign code, must contain the name of the code which will be telegraphed free of charge. Telegrams from banks and Government institutions, including Customs, are excepted from this rule.

The use of Chinese codes is disallowed except in telegrams addressed to Government institutions. This does not refer to the standard Chinese 4-figure book code, if the Chinese characters are also written on the message form.

These rules took effect from midnight, September 13.

THE MILWAUKEE ROAD

DEATH SENTENCE IN SINCERE TRIAL

Au Hing To Hang

FIRST ACCUSED OBTAINS ACQUITTAL

"It is dangerous to convict on the testimony of these accomplices (Ko Wah-tak and Leung Wong) unless you are satisfied that either or both of them are corroborated by outside, untainted testimony," remarked the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, in his summing-up to the jury, at the Criminal Sessions yesterday, in the case in which Li Fook-cheung and Au Hing were respectively charged with procuring and murdering David Chan-ze, managing director of the Sincere Company, at Prince Edward Road, on May 13.

After a lengthy summing-up the jury, after remaining for fifteen hours, returned a verdict of not guilty against Li Fook-cheung, accused of being an accessory in the murder, whilst Au Hing was found guilty of murder and was sentenced to death.

Mr. H. G. Sheldon, K.C., and Mr. J. Whyatt, Assistant Attorney-General, conducted the case for the Crown. Li was defended by the Hon. Mr. Leo D'Almada, Jnr., instructed by Mr. Leo D'Almada, Snr., while Mr. D. J. N. Anderson, instructed by Mr. F. I. Zimmerman, appeared for Au.

The jury empanelled for the case were:—Messrs. C. M. Hall (Foreman), Yue Ping-yul, Yuen Cheung-wan, Lo Wal-cheong, J. Akber, M. Maa, P. P. Archipoff.

SUMMING-UP

His Honour declared that on the night of May 13, Mr. David Chan-ze was brutally murdered as he was crossing Prince Edward Road on his way home. From beginning to end there was nothing to show provocation or circumstances in which he met his death that would reduce the killing from murder to manslaughter. The jury's duties, therefore, were simpler than they might have been, for the only choice open to them was between two verdicts, guilty of murder or not guilty.

The case had been an unusual one. It was happily rare indeed that two self-confessed participants in the brutal murder, two men who callously admitted that they were prime movers in the crime, stood in the witness-box instead of the dock. To bolster up their case, the Crown had been forced to put these two men, Ko Wah-tak and Leung Wong, in the witness-box instead of the dock. "The uncorroborated evidence," His Lordship continued, "of an accomplice is admissible in law, but it is my duty to warn you and warn you solemnly and strictly of the danger to convict either of the two prisoners on the uncorroborated testimony of Ko and Wong. When I say uncorroborated I mean by that word as much as this: that when Ko and Wong agreed in any part of their stories, neither of them corroborates the other. The principle of law is that one accomplice cannot corroborate the other. The reason is, I think, obvious. In the nature of things no-one knows more of the details of the crime than one who has admittedly been an active participant, and to no-one is it more easy to attribute a share in the crime to an innocent man.

UNTAINTED TESTIMONY

"It is dangerous to convict on the testimony of these accomplices unless you are satisfied that either or both of them are corroborated by outside, untainted testimony. When I speak of corroboration it is not sufficient to find someone among the witnesses who speak of some matter in detail relatively unimportant. It should be corroboration on something directly implicating the prisoners.

"Another point which is vital that you should bear in mind is that although the prisoners sit side by side and under the same indictment, their cases are completely distinct. So distinct are they in fact that it has not been suggested that the first accused had ever met the second or that he knew the other by name or even by sight until their arrest. Consider them separately and it will be within your province to return different verdicts against them if, after due consideration, you are convinced to a certainty that one is guilty while the other is innocent."

Dealing with the case for the Crown, his Lordship stated that it depended entirely, up to the time of the murder, on the testimony of Ko. After reviewing Ko's evidence his Lordship remarked that there was not a scintilla of corroboration from any outside witness.

In concluding his summing up on Li's case, his Lordship said: "The story against the prisoner is Ko's story and no-one else's. He is an accomplice. That is a pitiful and colourless word in which to describe a ghastly degenerate such as he admittedly has been throughout. There is nothing in the evidence of any independent witness or in the conduct of accused corroborating that story. It is within your province as a jury to convict on the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice, but I do solemnly warn you that it would be a most dangerous thing for you to do."

PROFESSIONAL ASSASSIN

The evidence against Au Hing was stronger than the first, because, unlike the latter, he had not seen fit to give evidence. He was a free agent, and might have come to the witness-box, as Li was man enough to do, given his own version, subject to the risk of cross-examination. If he was not prepared to do that, he might have made an unsworn statement from the dock. But he did not do so, either way.

He was not on trial for being a heroin addict, and what could be easier for an honest man than to say that he met Wong and Ko during one of his visits to the divans and had nothing to do with the murder? He had not taken the slightest pains to enlighten the Court of his movements, and this was a point to which the jury should give due weight.

Referring to the question of motive, his Lordship said that so far as Au was concerned, the motive need not give them much anxiety. He had been stated by friends and foes alike to be a professional assassin, to whom $25 was infinitely better than the life of an honourable and well-known man. That was the motive with him, and the jury need not go more deeply into the springs of human nature.

As regards Li, the position was different. Mr. Chan was the managing director of Sincere's, and until quite recently, prisoner himself had been a director. It was true he had not been re-elected, but it had not been suggested that this was due to any reason detrimental to his character or ability. He had for some time been over-drawing from the Company, but that was by no means unique.

PROFOUND GRATITUDE

He owed, at the time Mr. Chan was put into supreme control of the Company, between $7,000 and $8,000, and was asked to pay back $2,000 within two months and thereafter $100 a month. So far as they knew, he had complied loyally with these terms, and in September, 1936, wrote a letter of gratitude to Mr. Chan for his kindness in allowing him to repay himself of the indebtedness on such easy conditions.

Motive was a matter of utmost importance, went on his Lordship. He dared say the jury was well accustomed with the truism that motive was unimportant in a case of murder.

But there was one matter which established his motive quite clearly. Some time last summer, all was not well with Sincere's. They were in a very shaky position indeed, and had it not been for the rescue work done by the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, it would have been ship-wrecked completely. In ordinary circumstances it would be a matter for profound gratitude on the part of Li, as his livelihood depended on the continuance of Sincere's.

Dealing with the interview which Li had with Mr. Watson, his Lordship declared he confessed he found it a little difficult to understand why the intervention of the Bank to help Sincere's should evoke such dislike on the part of Li. Mr. Watson had told the Court that, Li informed him that the directors had not accepted the conditions, whereas Li said Mr. Watson's recollection was en-

THEFT OF PEN IN POLICE STATION

Unemployed Fined Ten Dollars

Lo Tak Wan, aged 26, unemployed, either has a distinct disregard for the law or he must like police stations. Here is the story.

Lo entered the Shamshui Police Station, walked past the charge room into the Interpreters' Room and there helped himself to a fountain pen.

At the point of leaving, however, Lo was observed by a station "boy" and his game was up.

Lo was searched and the pen was found in his possession. He was charged and made his appearance at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court yesterday when he pleaded guilty to theft.

Det-Sergt. F. Nolan, who prosecuted, told the Magistrate, Mr. E. Himsforth that Lo was found in the Yau Ma Tei Police Station some time ago.

Lo Tak Wan was fined $10 with the alternative of one month's hard labour.

$1,800 FINE

Woman Who Smuggled Opium Into Colony

Being told by an informer that some prepared opium was about to be smuggled into the Colony, a Chinese Revenue Officer successfully confiscated 33 teals of the drug from a Chinese spinster who was about to disembark from the s.s. Sui Tai, berthed at the Canton Wharf on September 11.

The accused, Wong Yuk-lau, appeared before Mr. S. F. Balfour yesterday, at the Central Magistrate's Court and was found guilty of possession. It was said that when the s.s. Sui Tai arrived the defendant was searched and some mooncakes in her possession were filled with opium.

In defence, the accused stated that a man offered her $10 to take that parcel ashore and she was ignorant of the fact that the contents were opium.

The magistrate took a serious view of the case and a fine of $1,800 with the alternative of nine months imprisonment, was imposed.

MEDICAL RELIEF FOR WAR ZONE

In view of the urgent need for medical relief in the war zone, the "Chinese Medical Relief Association" has been formed by the student body of the Hong Kong University. Its aim is to render assistance to the sick and wounded by sending them necessary requirements for medical aids.

In order to facilitate their work, the co-operation of the student bodies of Hong Kong is necessary. Two representatives from each school are requested to attend the next meeting on Monday, September 20, at 5 p.m. in the Union Assembly Room of the Hong Kong University Union.

tirely at fault, as what he said was only in connection with the articles of the association concerning the granting to the Sincere Co., Ltd., of supreme control over its subsidiary companies.

If the jury accepted Mr. Watson's story, the motive was there. All this happened during the summer of 1936, and it was a little unusual in the experience of things to assume that Li had a temper so slow that it took him from the time to fever heat, while in the meantime, most friendly letters interchanged. Not a soul had been invited to step into the witness-box to say Li had notorious aversions against Chan.

Further, there was no mention that Chan was his enemy, when Li was alleged to have asked Ko to do away with him. The jury must be satisfied, on the most tainted evidence, beyond any shadow of doubt that there was a most profound motive to inspire the first prisoner.

Li had not only given evidence in which he gave his own version of all his relationships with Ko, but he called three witnesses who were material, in that the object for calling them was to establish an alibi for himself on May 13 and to refute Ko's story about the date on which he wrote the note.

AIRCRAFT CARRIER

Warships Operating Off
Kiangsu

Tsingtao, Sept. 13.

With the sudden appearance of a Japanese aircraft carrier at Lienyunkang, strategic harbour on the north Kiangsu coast yesterday, military authorities believe naval activity along the Kiangsu coast imminent.

The Japanese carrier appeared off Shinkouso, on the southern Shantung coast near the Kiangsu border, on Sept. 11, with four other Japanese warships. Two planes were sent from the carrier to reconnoitre over several places inland yesterday. Late yesterday, the carrier suddenly sailed for Lienyunkang and sent six observation planes to reconnoitre over the area around the harbour immediately on arrival.

The carrier seized several Chinese fishing junks in the harbour. All traffic between Tsingtao and Haichow has been stopped.—Central News.

JAPANESE MASS ATTACK

Taiyuan, Sept. 13.

Japanese troops attacked the Chinese troops east of Tatung. Important coal and rail centre in northern Shansi, day before yesterday, precipitating a fierce battle.

Under cover of an intense bombardment by field artillery and an incessant hail of bombs from Japanese planes, the attacking forces smashed the Chinese first lines in the first rush, but heavy Chinese reinforcements, sent promptly from the rear, prevented further advances.

The opposing forces fought to a standstill for the whole noon and the early part of the evening, finally resulting in the Japanese giving way to a Chinese counter-attack of vastly superior numbers. The Japanese casualties are reported to have run well above the 2,000 mark, the Chinese suffering equally heavy losses. One Japanese plane was shot down during the fighting.

Further hostilities are expected in this region.—Central News.

KALGAN FRONT

Chinese Advancing Rapidly
From South

Paoting, Sept. 13.

Striking with great rapidity, a large force of Chinese troops have suddenly captured several villages on the Peiping-Suiyuan Railway and are said to be advancing on Kalgan, according to military reports received here.

Lianghaopao and Kuotchuang, villages on the railway a short distance from the pass at Kalgan, were captured on the evening of Sept. 11 following a series of surprise attacks by the Chinese forces.

It is reported that Kalgan is defended only by a small force of Japanese and Mongol-Manchukuo "irregulars" in view of the fact that three forces of Japanese and "irregulars" have been sent north-westward toward the Suiyuan in the past few days.—Central News.

GRIM STRUGGLE

Paoting, Sept. 13.

The heavily mechanised Japanese reinforcements along the Tientsin-Pukow Railway battered the main force of the Chinese east of Tsangchow, 57 miles south of Tientsin, in a terrific battle yesterday, according to military intelligence.

Equipped with tanks, with other mechanised fighting paraphernalia, the Japanese pounded the Chinese main forces incessantly throughout the day, but the Chinese right and left wings fought back ferociously.

In spite of the fact that the Chinese lines have been badly dented, the defenders are holding out and are digging in on the south bank of the Helenho.—Central News.

RESIDENCES SEIZED

Paoting, Sept. 13.

A number of Japanese transports have been arriving at Taku during the past week, the troops and supplies being sent up to Tientsin by junks up the Haiho.

The number of reinforcements arriving last week is not known, but military authorities report that they are considerably fewer than in the weeks previous.

Many residences in Tientsin have been seized for billeting Japanese troops.—Central News.

IMPORTANT DECISION

Britain To Hold On In Shanghai

THE CHINESE WAR

Britain is to hold on in Shanghai. This is probably the most important of the reported decisions of a recent meeting between the Prime Minister, Mr. Eden, and Lord Halifax. It is a wise decision, even an inevitable one if we are to escape the danger of losing our position in the busiest of the Treaty ports. To a very great extent modern Shanghai is the creation of British enterprise, says the "Manchester Guardian." With the French and Americans—and the mercantile Chinese—we had laid the foundation of its immense prosperity long before Japan was in any condition to interest herself in such matters. Yet if Shanghai falls into the hands of the Japanese armed forces they may be disposed to recognise only existing facts. One of these facts should be the presence of British and French garrisons in the Settlement and Concession, and of European civilians who have stood to their posts in defiance of danger.

The British Government, it would seem, still hopes that Japan may consent (as China has already consented) to a mutual withdrawal of the warring forces from Shanghai and its neighbourhood. That hope must be a slender one. New landings of Japanese troops north and south of the city as well as in Shanghai itself suggest that General Matsui intends to fight to a finish there.

WEATHER A FRIEND

It may be that conditions in North China have something to do with such a decision. There the weather has been a friend to the Chinese. Rain has turned the plains of Hopei into seas of mud, and even in the hills the defenders of the Nankow Pass have no doubt been helped by the swelling of the torrents. This Chinese army has certainly put up a good fight, but if one may believe the reports from Peking, it is now isolated, and the Japanese have at last made sure of the north-eastern province of Chahar, which they have been swallowing piecemeal for years back. But the main fight in North China has still to begin. The conquest of Shanghai might seriously damage the morale of the large Chinese forces which are concentrating more than 600 miles away at Paoting.

CHINESE TRAPPED

Shanghai, Sept. 13.

Scores of Chinese soldiers were routed when extensive fires broke out in blocks of Chinese houses in the western area of Chapel bordering on the Settlement.

The fire, which are alleged to have been started by Chinese traitors, exposed many Chinese machine-gun nests, the presence of which had previously been completely unknown to the Japanese, and smoked out the Chinese soldiers who were fully equipped with big-bladed swords, rifles and hand grenades.

According to a Chinese officer, the fires were evidently designed to uncover to Japanese aerial view the extent of the Chinese forces in that vicinity.—Reuter.

COMMANDER A CANTONESE

Shanghai, Sept. 13.

It is now revealed that the commander of the beleaguered battalion at Paoshan, which was wiped out following 48 hours of incessant bombardment by Japanese land and naval forces on September 5 to 7, was a native of Kwangtung.

Major Yao Tze-ching was born in Pingyuan district in the province of Kwangtung, graduating from the Whampoa Military Academy in 1929. He was sent almost immediately to the Kiangsi front where he distinguished himself in the campaign against the Communists.

At the battle of Ningtu, he was struck and seriously wounded by Red bullets, but gallantly remained at his post to direct the activities of his detachment.

For his bravery and gallantry, he was promoted to the rank of major and given command of the battalion which eventually defended Paoshan so tenaciously to the last man.

Major Yao was only 29 years of age and was greatly admired and esteemed by his comrade officers and his men. He was unmarried and is survived by his 60-year-old father.—Central News.

Is Your THROAT SORE?

YOUR throat is the "danger spot" where infection germs enter your system and cause laryngitis, quinsy, influenza, colds and similar troubles. You can soon cure a sore throat and avoid complications by sucking Peps tablets every now and again. Peps are pleasant to taste, yet wonderfully pain-soothing. They give off powerful healing vapours which circulate through the breathing tubes and lungs; Peps overcome harmful germs, end soreness and keep you free from coughs, colds and chills. They are far more lasting and much handier than gargles.

5 GOLDEN RULES FOR MARRIAGE

MAGISTRATE'S ADVICE TO GIRLS

Mr. Claud Mullins, the London South-Western magistrate, distributed the prizes at Rosebery County School for Girls, Epsom, recently.

On the question of marriage he had five golden rules to lay down:

(1) Study marriage in all its aspects before embarking on it, just as you study history and geography, only a good deal better; and be frank with your partner before marriage.

(2) Try to arrange harmony in the home in the matter of money, and try to get the husband to realise that wives and mothers probably work as hard as he does; and try to get him to realise that there is no trade union for mothers.

(3) Share your friends, and do not jump to foolish conclusions if you see your partner talking to someone of your sex on top of the bus.

(4) Be prepared by knowing how to cook and what food gives good value.

(5) Remember what Moses said that man cannot live by bread alone, and do not ignore spiritual values.

If these golden rules were followed, Mr. Mullins added, he would be out of work on most Tuesday afternoons, and juvenile courts would largely close down.

Judge And Gangster Methods

"So long as I sit here as Judge, these methods—which are gangster methods—will be stamped out," said Mr. Justice Charles at Winchester Assizes recently.

He sentenced John Dunn, 32, to three years' penal servitude and ten strokes of the "cat" for robbing a Portsmouth shopkeeper while armed with a revolver and for breaking into a Portsmouth house and stealing jewellery.

The case for the prosecution was that he went into the shop and said to the proprietor, "Stick 'em up. Where's the notes?" He went behind the counter but all he found was 16s.

STOLEN HOLIDAY

Kay Francis, perpetual favourite. In this city, comes to the screen of the King's Theatre to-day in "Stolen Holiday," a First National film which depicts the rise of an obscure French mannequin in a tiny modiste shop, to the position of world fashion queen.

The name of Kay Francis instantly conjures up visions of magnificent gowns and no list of ten best-dressed women in the country fails to include her name. But "Stolen Holiday" is said to be not merely a fashion show. It is a tense drama, with rioting mobs on the streets of Paris, international, political and financial complications, and no end of suspense.

While advance reports indicate that there are plenty of "1937" gowns to be seen as Miss Francis advances her career as a designer, the beautiful costumes are merely incidental to the story.

Claude Rains, who triumphed in "Anthony Adverse," appears as an unscrupulous financier who backs Kay in her ventures, until at last his complicated schemes crash about his head.

Ian Hunter, who has appeared with her recently in several pictures, provides the love interest for Miss Francis in this one.

SEVENTH HEAVEN

The honours in "Seventh Heaven" are divided primarily between the tremendously moving picturisation of this, the tenderest romance of our time, and the fact that in it emerges fully an actress destined to be known as the greatest star on the screen—Simone Simon, co-starred with James Stewart in the Twentieth Century-Fox production which has its run at the Queen's and Alhambra Theatres to-day.

Austin Strong's immortal love story, adapted from the stage play produced and directed by John Golden, presents once again that star-crossed pair of lovers, Diane and Chico, who lift your heart to the sky.

Simone Simon, as the little waif, Diane, surpasses all hopes expressed for this sensational French screen find, who has the strange gift of touching the deepest places of your heart. And James Stewart—tall, laughing, gray-eyed—shines opposite her as Chico of the valiant spirit and the sky, yearning love.

For the background of "Seventh Heaven," Twentieth Century-Fox has re-created a vivid and picturesque Montmartre, set in the turbulent days of 1914. In the huge, subterranean Paris sewer, Chico spends his working days, scornful of the Providence that failed, first, to make him a street washer, and, second, to bring him a fine, intelligent wife.

Darryl F. Zanuck, chose Melville Baker to adapt "Seventh Heaven" to the screen, and Henry King to direct. Jean Hersholt, Gregory Ratoff, Gale Sondergaard, J. Edward Bromberg, John Qualen, Victor Kilian, Thomas Beck, Sig Ruman and Mady Christians are featured in the cast.

In recent law case Mr. Justice A. Forest of Montreal ruled that cows have as much right in the road as the motor-car. This confirms what cows seem to have known all along.

STARRY SCENARIO

Hollywood Through the Backdoor, by Nils Holstins. (Geoffrey Bles, 10s. 6d.)

Having finished his best novel, "Winter's End," Mr. Holstins decided to try whether it was possible to get his living as a scenario writer in Hollywood. But that his time might not be wasted in any case, he thought he would first of all make a study of the underworld of Los Angeles, the huge industrial city of which Hollywood is the not too merry Mayfair. So, taking the name of Ed Hamilton, he sailed in a tramp steamer to San Francisco, "hitch-hiked" to his destination, and lived for months in the purlieus of its exaggerated Main Street. Great or small, rich or not so rich, the great Western cities all have for their psychological backbone, so to speak, the Main Street as described by Sinclair Lewis in his novel of discovery. They are all provincial-minded to a degree undreamed of in England. Walled up to the sky as some of them are, and roaring like the sea, their tallest skyscrapers are dominated by a colossal parish-pump which everlastingly discharges a flood of pigments and platitudes.

The story of his adventures is a real book, not merely a parcel of literary realism. There are sobs in it, but no stuff. His disguise as a "limy" was never penetrated, and he lived at his ease under the flashing Neon lights of "down town" life in the least credible of capitals. He tells us of the various rackets, and of the dollarless social derelicts who yet renew their hopefulness daily in the brisk Californian air. He discovered a strong feeling of anti-Semitism in this turbulent underworld.

L.A. LIFE

Daily he heard the croaking of the newsboys. "Another murder in L.A. Another murder in L.A." L.A. also prided itself on being a very religious city, and it is certainly a museum of guerrilla sects, some of which maintain very dreary tabernacles. He attended Almee Semple McPherson's "Healing Night," and was much surprised at the eagerness shown to collect money on every conceivable pretext (such as paying for "prayer-time on the air") and even more so when a hopeless, helpless cripple brought on a stretcher, from hospital emerged from her blankets in a smart evening gown. The miracle must have been intelligently anticipated. A striptease show, watched by highly respectable people, is an interesting companion picture. Everybody liked the spurious "limy"; there is this to be said for the Americans—they are the kindest people in the world, though very sensitive to criticism. Mr. Holstins found that the beauties of the screen were often meagre and insignificant in real life: Mae West was disappointingly slim, her opulent physique being a matter of padding, though she likes the large "love of a lid like this" (to quote Marie Dressler in her vaudeville days). As for the Hollywood executives, they made appointments with him but never kept them.—E. B. O. in the London "Morning Post."

HOT MONEY

"Hot Money," Warner Bros. newest comedy romance opens at the Majestic Theatre to-day, with Ross Alexander and Beverly Roberts in the leading roles.

The picture is said to be a riot of laughs with a delightful underlying romance. The theme is based on the "wild cat" promotion schemes of the days of easy money, and in this instance is the sale of stock in an organization formed to sell a liquid concentrate, which, added to water, will make a substitute for gasoline that will run an automobile twenty-five miles per gallon at the cost of one cent.

Stock is sold quickly to a gullible public, but the company gets into hot water with the Better Business Bureau.

The action moves fast and furious with stockholders clamoring for their money back and the promoters threatened with arrest. But an unusual event takes place which brings the picture to a close in a riotous climax.

Alexander and Miss Roberts, the fast talking promoter, and his secretary, form a new and pleasing team of screen lovers. Joseph Cawthorn, famous stage and screen comedian, and Paul Gratz, former German comedian who made such a hit in "Mr. Cohen Takes a Walk," have the leading comedy roles.

Wife Can Adopt Illegitimate Daughter

Important Judgment

An interesting decision relating to child adoption under the Act of 1926 was given by Mr. Justice Luxmoore in the Chancery Division recently.

The applicants, husband and wife, sought to adopt the wife's 19-year-old illegitimate daughter who was no blood relation to the husband. Husband and wife were both less than 21 years older than the "infant."

The Act placed restrictions on the making of adoption orders, said Mr. Justice Luxmoore. It provided that no order should be made where the applicant was less than 21 years older than the "infant." There was a proviso that where the applicant and the "infant" were within the prohibited degrees of consanguinity the Court could make an order even though the applicant was less than 21 years older than the "infant."

The answer to the question, he said, depended on the true construction of the phrase "within the prohibited degrees of consanguinity."

The female applicant and the "infant" were within the defined degrees of consanguinity, but the male adopter was not, though he was in a similar degree of affinity. The Court had no power to approve an adoption by the male applicant, either or jointly with the female applicant.

The male applicant, added Mr. Justice Luxmoore, consented to the adoption of the "infant" by the female applicant alone, the requirements of the Act were satisfied, and he authorised adoption by the mother alone.

NOVARRO DESERTS LOUNGE SUITS

For Sheik's Flowing Robes In "Come-Back" Picture

"They never come back" is

Hollywood's favourite catchphrase. And Hollywood has said it so often that it is now an integral part of the system on which Hollywood works.

Which brings us to Ramon Novarro, once one of the greatest of screen stars but now not seen by filmgoers since he played in "The Night Is Young" three years ago.

Novarro is attempting a comeback, defying Hollywood.

Novarro does it in a picture called "The Sheik Steps Out." The film has been produced by Republic, one of Hollywood's independent companies.

It brings Ramon Novarro back in a romantic role similar to those which first made him famous. Adele Buffington wrote the original story of "The Sheik Steps Out," specially for Novarro. Novarro's future now hangs on the power or weakness of four words, "They never come back."

NYON CONFERENCE

RUSSIA EXCLUDED FROM PATROL WORK

Agreement To Come Into Force From To-day

London, Sept. 13.

Both Italy and Germany are pleased at the exclusion of Soviet Russia from the Mediterranean patrol scheme.

The newspapers of both countries are taking the attitude that the Soviet was responsible for the piracy.

A message from Rome states it is understood that Italy will not adhere to any Mediterranean arrangement which does not put her on terms of complete parity with the other Powers. No Italian decision as to participation is expected until the Non-Intervention Committee meets.

From Nuremberg come a message that German circles are indignant at the role played at Nyon by M. Litvinoff. It is even suggested that Germany may never again sit at the same conference table with M. Litvinoff.

RUSSIAN ATTITUDE

Meanwhile, the Soviet attitude is reflected in the following which appears in Pravda, the official organ of the Communist Party: "M. Litvinoff tore the mask of the 'unknown' nationality' behind which the Italian pirates attempted to hide. The Soviet will fully support the decisions of the Conference for ensuring the safety of the Mediterranean. Against Italian pirates destroying our ships and killing Soviet citizens we will take our own measures."

GOOD RECEPTION

Plan Welcomed By Morning Newspapers

London, Sept. 13.

The Mediterranean anti-piracy plan has been welcomed by the morning papers most of which comment on the subject editorially this morning.

The general opinion is that the plan is a practical measure to deal with the submarine menace, and tributes are paid to the expeditious manner in which agreement was reached at Nyon, while hope is freely expressed that Italy may decide to collaborate in the patrol work.

"The Times" says the conference confounded its critics both by the rapidity with which it reached agreement and the practical nature of the scheme.

The British and French naval advisers had produced a scheme which is likely to prove a serious deterrent to further outrages against neutral shipping on the two great trade routes of the Mediterranean, says the journal, which adds that the vigour displayed by the British delegation at Nyon and the readiness of His Majesty's Government to assist the weaker Mediterranean States are wholly to be praised.

"BAD FOR PIRATES"

The "Daily Telegraph" declares: "It is hard to believe that objection can be raised by any government to the naval action defined in the agreement."

"Both Italy and Germany declared their sympathy with the purpose of the Conference and, now that the decision of the conference proves that it has not been influenced by any partialities in the Spanish conflict or any international predilections, the world is justified in expecting that sympathy will become practical assistance."

The "Daily Herald" describes the plan as "bad for pirates" and says that the British and French were determined that the conference should be a practical body dealing with a specific problem—not a forum for the examination of accusations or the exhibition of antagonism—and they had their way.

A COSTLY CAPTURE

Shanghai, Sept. 13.

The Japanese capture of Paoshan last week has proved most costly in men and material. It is roughly estimated by military observers that during the two-day bombardment of the walled town Japan spent approximately U.S. $100,000 in munitions.

The Japanese succeeded in razing the town and wiping out one

"MISTRUST SOVIET"

Berlin, Sept. 12.

German political circles are sceptical as to whether the Soviet will stand by the Nyon Agreement.

A spokesman asks who is to guarantee that the Soviet will not send their submarines to the Mediterranean under a false flag?

"We must mistrust every agreement to which the Soviet is a partner," says this spokesman.

It is understood, says a message from Nuremberg, that Herr Adolf Hitler will refer to the Nyon Conference and other foreign questions in a speech to the Party Congress on Monday night. Today Hitler stood saluting for nearly five hours reviewing a parade of one hundred and ten thousand Storm Troops and Black Guards from all parts of Germany.

Reuter.

IN FORCE TO-DAY

Geneva, Sept. 13.

Britain will contribute 35 and France 25 destroyers towards patrol in the Mediterranean in order to provide safety lanes for shipping under the Nyon agreement.

The agreement is expected to come into force about Tuesday. In addition to the destroyers, aircraft will supplement the patrols near bases such as Malta and Gibraltar.

British and French naval experts believe that the mere signature of the Nyon Agreement will have a deterrent effect on pirates and that the exercise of force will probably not be necessary.

TO ASSIST WAR VICTIMS

Missionary Societies Hold Consultations

London, Sept. 13.

The China Secretaries and the leading British missionary societies held joint consultations in London regarding the present emergency in China.

It is understood the meeting was greatly impressed by the unprecedented opportunity for rendering medical and refugee service to troops and civilians alike.

It was felt by the meeting that each society should make determined efforts not only to maintain regular hospital work, but also to seek to increase and strengthen their personnel and equipment, in order to render skilled help to the war victims, irrespective of nationality.

This will probably be the limit of American participation in the Assembly's deliberations on the Far East since the United States are not a member of the League. Nevertheless, it is expected a close watch will be kept on the proceedings of the Assembly.

An unknown submarine was sighted off Cartagena and fired on by the Cartagena shore batteries, while motor launches rushed up and dropped depth charges, according to a message from Valencia, which adds that oil was afterwards seen on the surface of the water and that it is generally believed that the submarine was sunk.

The report, however, has not been confirmed in Gibraltar.

HEAVY FIGHTING

Yanghang Reduced To A Mass Of Ruins

Shanghai, Sept. 13. With Yanghang a mass of ruins, and the area around it a stretch of desolate shell-scarred field, the Chinese, late last night, moved south-east to Yingchia Creek, fighting all the way.

An all-day aerial bombardment and shelling from warships and approximately 100 field guns, literally reduced Yanghang and its vicinity to a stretch of smoldering ruins. Several thousand shells are estimated by military authorities to have been hurled into the sector during the past 24 hours.

According to accounts given by military sources, Yanghang has been seen several times since serious fighting broke out in the area on Sept. 11.

The Japanese are reported to have thrown their main force from the Woosung area into the Yanghang sector. Heavy Chinese forces are also massed in the area south-east of the ruined town.

Serious fighting continued throughout last night, and late reports indicate that another serious engagement may be expected to-day.

FATE OF LOTIENCHEN

Shanghai, Sept. 13: The fate of Lotienchen is reported to be still uncertain.

Although the Japanese still hold the town and its immediate vicinity, the Chinese are still surrounding the Japanese and are waiting for an opportune moment to attack.

Several Japanese attempts from the direction of Liuhio, to break through the Chinese ring and send reinforcements to the Japanese holding Lotienchen, have been frustrated by Chinese troops near Liuhio.

Intermittent fighting is going on between Japanese holding the town and the Chinese surrounding the area.

CHINESE PLANES ACTIVE

Shanghai, Sept. 13: A lone Chinese plane at 7.20 o'clock last night, flew up the Whangpoo over the string of Japanese warships in the river, with the apparent intention of bombing, but was driven off by brisk anti-aircraft fire.

A quarter of an hour later, another Chinese plane flew over the Japanese positions in the Yangtse-poo area and dropped a number of bombs. It continued on along the river and aimed a few bombs at warships anchored in the Whangpoo, but failed to register a hit.

Chinese Airmen Score Many Hits

Nanking, Sept. 12.

Chinese airmen raided Japanese warships, to-day, states a Shanghai message.

The bombs struck at least five including two cruisers.

The military authorities estimate the Japanese losses since the beginning of hostilities in Shanghai are three thousand marines and ten thousand soldiers, while the Japanese in Shanghai estimate Chinese losses at thirty thousand dead and under twenty thousand wounded.

CHANGED TONE

Japan May Respond To Co-operation Offer

Shanghai, Sept. 13.

Mr. Kawagoe, Japanese Ambassador to China, in an interview with Reuter, said the foreign trade and commerce of China need not be affected unequally and unfairly by the Japanese objective, namely, the abandonment by Chinese leaders of anti-Japanism and the rejection of communism.

Mr. Kawagoe declared that the achievement of this objective would bring about Sino-Japanese co-operation on an equal footing. He emphasised that the question of the "open door" did not arise.

Asked whether Japan was willing to subject the dispute to an international commission, Mr. Kawagoe replied it had always been the traditional Japanese policy to settle Sino-Japanese questions with China direct. He did not think, personally, there would be any change in that policy, but believed Japan might not necessarily be unwilling to respond to an offer of co-operation by some of the Powers who had helped to settle the 1932 conflict.

Being Formed By Chinese Between Yuehpu-Yanghong

Shanghai, Sept. 13.

The Chinese forces have completed a new line of defence between Yuehpu and Yanghong and are pouring heavy reinforcements into the area to meet the expected Japanese offensive.

Chinese military authorities admitted to-day that owing to the proximity of Yuehpu to the coast, the forces there have also withdrawn southward for tactical reasons. They have formed a straight line in conjunction with the other columns near Yanghong which was evacuated on Saturday night.

The Japanese are expected to make another attempt to push through to Lotienchen, which, if successful, will enable them to effect a junction with the isolated landing party there.

TOWN LEVELLED

It is revealed to-day that during the attack on Yanghong on Saturday the Japanese used a battery of 100 field pieces to hurl their projectiles into the town which has now been levelled to the ground.

The Chinese carried out their withdrawal with such secrecy that the Japanese guns fired into empty fields for more than two hours before they discovered that they were wasting their munitions. Observers claim that the Chinese troops died so gallantly that it would "shake the heavens and earth and make gods and spirits weep."

STRONG ATTACK EXPECTED

Chinese Massing Troops To Meet It

Shanghai, Sept. 13.

The Chinese are massing strong forces at Kiangwan to meet the powerful thrust which the Japanese are expecting to make from Yanghong and Yangtse-poo simultaneously.

The Japanese claim the capture of the Far Eastern Racecourse, off Yangtse-poo. The indications are that the Chinese will soon find it expedient to form a new line. The Chinese emphasise that a strategic withdrawal would be in accordance with prearranged plans.

A Japanese spokesman denied the Chinese claim that five warships, including two cruisers, had been hit in the course of the Chinese air raids during the night.

Cholera among the Japanese troops in the Paoshan sector is spreading. There are now more than 200 cases.

Upset Stomach Quickly Put Right

Stomach disturbances such as digestive pain, gastritis, wind, heartburn, and feeling of revolt, are invariably the result of "acid formation" which, as a rule, gets worse and worse and may ultimately lead to serious ulcers. By counteracting excess acid and preventing its formation, BISMAG (Bismarck Magnesia) quickly puts right an upset stomach; pain disappears instantly, fermentation and wind are banished and soothing relief supersedes uncomfortable disturbance. Thousands have ended stomach trouble with BISMAG (Bismarck Magnesia)—you can do the same! Ask for "BISMAG" powder or tablets to-day and always see the oval sign on every pack.

JAPANESE HOPE FOR PEACE

M. Kadono, Chairman of the Japanese Economic Mission, which is touring Britain, referred to the trouble in China when speaking at a luncheon given by the Manchester Chamber of Commerce recently. "We must have some duration of peace for prosperity in trade," he said, "and another disturbance would be the worst possible thing." Of the situation affecting Japan and Lancashire, he said, "I hope to be able to say when I return home that some policy for prosperity and an adjustment of trade relations has been brought about."

MOVEMENTS

The Siamese squadron comprising two training ships (Tachin, Maeklong) and three torpedo boats (Klongy, Taklai, Kantang) left the Colony at 8 a.m. on Sunday for Bangkok.

U.S.S. Sacramento is expected to arrive here on September 19.

H.M.S. Thracian returned yesterday with Miss Paton, a missionary who a small mission "under her care" at Katsam Swabue near Swatow, on board.

Miss Paton runs a girls' school at Swabue where, except for Dr. and Mrs. Fraser, of the English Presbyterian Mission, she has been the only European resident for some time. She has lived in Swabue many years. Mrs. Fraser is now in Hong Kong with her family and Dr. Fraser was last heard of in Swatow from where he hoped to make his way through Swabue to Hong Kong overland.

There are two other isolated missions not far away, at Chachafu and Wukingfu, and no news has been received in Hong Kong of these stations for over a week. The last news was a rumour that Japanese had landed a few miles from Swabue.

H.M.A.S. CANBERRA

The cruiser Canberra, flagship of the Royal Australian Navy, has been on a visit to Singapore.

Leaving Sydney last month, the Canberra visited Darwin on her way to Singapore. On the return trip she left Batavia on September 10, and will make calls at Soerabaya and Bali, going back to Australia by way of Fremantle and South Australian ports.

THE EARL OF JERSEY

The Earl of Jersey will marry Miss Virginia Cherrill, the American film actress, in London shortly.

Miss Cherrill played the part of the blind flower girl in Charlie Chaplin's film "City-Lights". The Earl is 26 and Miss Cherrill 26.

The Countess of Jersey was granted a decree nisi on January 11. It was made absolute by Mr. Justice Langton in the Divorce Court recently.

CHINESE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEMBERS DO THEIR PART

To Aid War Relief Fund For North China Refugees.

Mr. Lau King-ting, President of the Hong Kong Anti-Heroin Society, suggested, at a meeting of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce yesterday, that each member deduct five per cent. of his monthly salary towards the relief fund for war refugees in North China.

Mr. Lau also suggested that members should also contribute to the fund what money they normally spend on joss days and festivals.

Mr. Lau King-ting

Both suggestions met with the unanimous approval of the meeting.

The Chinese Chamber of Commerce has already subscribed over $100,000; the principal donors being Mr. Li Sing-kui (Chairman) $10,000, Mr. Tung Chung-wei $2,000, Mr. Fung Heung-chuen $2,000, Mr. Li Jowson $500, Mr. Lau Pui-sang $500, Mr. Lau King-ting $200.

Another meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held on Friday afternoon.

ART EXHIBITION

Local Artist's Work On Show

Seldom has Hong Kong seen such a fine array of pictures as displayed in Mr. Louis Chan's One-Man Exhibition of art which was opened to the public yesterday at No. 8A, Des Voeux Road.

Mr. Chan is known to the Colony as a talented artist, and is a member of the Hong Kong Working Artists' Guild in which our former Governor, Sir Andrew Caldecott, had used to take great interest. Mr. Chan has twice previously given exhibitions of his work and on each occasion the large collection enjoyed much favourable criticism.

At the display yesterday, which will be continued till September 15, there were about 100 pictures in oil and water colours.

There were many visitors in the display room and it is understood that several of the exhibits were sold. Mr. Chan intends to send the unsold pictures to London for exhibition there.

CHOLERA IN PRISON

Prisoner Dies Of Disease

An inquest into the death of Yeung Tung, a cholera prisoner, was held yesterday, at the Central Magistracy, when Mr. W. Schofield sat as Coroner assisted by a jury comprising: Messrs. J. E. Noronha (foreman), W. G. Maycock and Tung Wing-ki.

Mr. G. Fitzgerald, Chief Warden of the Hong Kong Prison in Stanley, stated that the deceased was sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour under the Tobacco Ordinance on March 25. The deceased was admitted to the Prison Hospital on Sept. 10 and died on the following day.

Dr. G. Ingram Shaw, Medical Officer in charge of the Prison, said he first saw deceased on the day he was convicted. His condition then was very poor, but the deceased was admitted into the Hospital under his care for the last time on Sept. 10 suffering from diarrhoea.

On Sept. 11 he expired and after a post-mortem it was found that the cause of death was primary cholera and chronic tuberculosis. The jury, at this stage, asked how it was that there was cholera in the prison and Dr. Shaw replied that he did not know but suspected that flies had carried the bacteria. He also said that all prisoners who were admitted after Aug. 4 were inoculated with an "anti-cholera" serum and up to the present date only four prisoners were suffering from the disease, three of which were positive cases.

The jury were quite satisfied with Dr. Shaw's statement and a verdict of "Death from natural causes" was returned.

51 CASES OF CHOLERA

There were 51 cases of cholera, one of diphtheria, three of enteric fever, one of dysentery, and one of puerperal fever during the 48 hours ended midnight September 12, according to the Hong Kong Health Officer's returns.

POLICE TOOK A PEEP!

A fine of $100, or two months' hard labour, was imposed on Li Wing, 48, when he appeared before Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday charged with exhibiting indecent pictures, at Public Square Street on September 11 at 10 p.m.

Detective Sub-Inspector R. Cunningham said that he saw defendant running a peep-show in Public Square Street.

POET LAUREATE SUCCEEDS BARRIE

Mr. John Maschfeld, the Poet Laureate, has been elected to succeed Sir James Barrie as President of the Incorporated Society of Authors, Playwrights, and Composers. Previous Presidents, in addition to Sir James Barrie, were Thomas Hardy, George Meredith, and Lord Tennyson.

RICKSHAW: NEW STYLE

The cycle rickshaw is now a prominent vehicle in the streets of Bangkok, capital of Siam. It consists of a trailer holding two passengers, pulled by a pedal-cyclist, or occasionally by a motor-cyclist.

"It is a cheap and popular form of transport," states a report issued by the Department of Overseas Trade, "but to other road-users appears singularly unmanageable." There are also 5,300 tricycle rickshaws registered as plying for hire in Bangkok, and it is not, therefore, surprising that the report adds that traffic lights made their appearance in the capital last year.

Siam is described as a country "where millions are passing rich on a good deal less than £40 a year."

Among its exports were 39,000,000 ducks' egg sent to Singapore.

LAND SALE

At the office of the P.W.D., yesterday afternoon, three lots of crown land, registered at the land office as Rural Building No. 400, New Kowloon Inland Lot No. 2598, and New Kowloon Inland Lot No. 2601, were put up for public auction.

The first lot, situated at the south of Rural Building lot No. 369, Repulse Bay Road, has an area of 10,000 square feet and its annual crown rental is $114.

Mrs. Y. Yu, c/o Messrs. H. Shing & Co., Marina House, was the only bidder, and secured the lot at the upset price of $2,000.

The lot is to be held from the crown for a period of 75 years with the option of renewal for one further term of 75 years.

Enquiries from the purchaser elicited the information that she intends to use the site for the erection of a European house. It is understood that the detailed plans for the house have not yet been decided upon.

The second lot, which is situated at the west of Kowloon, Inland lot No. 1894, Castle Peak Road, Lai-chikok, was sold to Mr. Ka Tsoi Ka Yuen, who paid $5,000 for it. The lot has an area of about 30,000 square feet and its annual crown rental is $414.

The lot is to be held from the crown for a period of 75 years, with the option of renewal for one further term of 24 years.

LOT WITHDRAWN

The third lot, which is situated in Tai Po Road, Shumshuipo, Kowloon, was withdrawn, owing to the absence of the applicant who failed to appear at the auction.

Mr. H. West, superintendent of Crown Lands and Survey, P.W.D., conducted the auction.

LOCAL SOCCER MATTERS

Referees' Meeting

At a meeting of the Hong Kong Football Referees Association yesterday the question of reducing the fees paid for first class referees was discussed but after consideration it was decided that they will be paid the same sum as in the former years. The Chairman, Mr. Symthe, read a letter from the Hong Kong Football Association informing them that they will not reduce the fees of first class referees who would be paid the full fees if funds permitted. If by the end of the year the budget is too great it will then be decided, whether a reduction will be enforced.

To the above letter it was decided that the Association will be informed that the referees were against reduction and would be asking for an assurance that the fees will not be reduced this season.

Four civilians passed the examination held at the conclusion of the League Management meeting. They were, Messrs. J. Havelaar, A. C. Stone, D. Demee and F. Barretto.

LEAGUE MANAGEMENT COMMITTEE

At the H.K.F.A. League Management Committee meeting yesterday it was revealed that the Chinese Athletic Association have withdrawn both their senior and junior teams from the League. As the Navy and Army teams have not made up their team it was decided by the Committee that the ten senior teams will be drawn up and if the Navy and Army teams inform the Committee by October 31 they will be permitted to join in the contest competition. An application was made by the Kwong Wah, to take the Athletic's place in the first Division but the proposal was rejected. They will be granted the facilities of joining into the Second Division. It is understood that the South China Athletic Association will enter a team in the Third Division.

HONG KONG, SEPTEMBER 14, 1937.

NOW WHAT'S THE GAME?

We have been so sickened by the insincerity of the Government of Japan and its seemingly unending supply of "spokesmen," that when the cable was received yesterday that the Japanese Ambassador to China, Mr. Kawagoe, had intimated that "Japan might not necessarily be unwilling to respond to an offer for co-operation by some of the Powers which helped to settle the 1932 conflict," we merely remarked, "Now what's the game?"

It will be noticed that the Japanese Ambassador's choice of words is stamped by that ambiguity which makes a two-way interpretation not only probable but inevitable. The statement is not in any way definite, and it is purely a personal expression of opinion, but if it had been made by one holding ambassadorial rank on behalf of any country which has preserved its virtue whilst also maintaining its greatness, then such a statement would be treated as a genuine indication that there was still a possibility of peace with honour being achieved as between China and the aggressor Japan.

There is one nation which has shown, particularly from 1914 onwards, a remarkable facility for drafting proposals for the settlement of the differences which exist between other nations. We refer, of course, to the United States of America. President Wilson was particularly noteworthy in this connection. It was the downright Clemenceau who, in one of his many moments of considerable heat, declared, "President Wilson is worse than God, because whilst the Good Lord had only ten points, M. le President has fourteen!"

President Wilson has honourable successors, and America has always shown a disposition to mediate. In the present Sino-Japanese crisis the United States of America has a very important interest in view of her far-reaching responsibilities in the Pacific, and, therefore, the good works of the American Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull, in trying to obtain unanimity amongst all nations is very praiseworthy. Already he has received replies from 54 nations to his 14-Point Proposals for Peace. However—and this is the crux of the matter—all the

CHINA REVIEW

China's Educational Problem

It has been estimated that there are more than 40,000,000 children of school age in China, and that half of them are not given educational facilities. No doubt, the farmer class still adheres to the old belief that education identifies itself with aristocracy and that knowledge is an unnecessary attainment for tillers of the soil. The Chinese Government, however, should correct this wrong conception, and do all it can to raise the standard of life among the masses.

According to the report of Mr. Wang Ching Wei at the Kuling Conference, the Ministry of Education has decided to give at least 80 per cent. of these school-age children free education through its five-year compulsory education plan. In 1935 the total amount expended on compulsory education was $14,700,000, and in 1936 the amount rose to $20,120,000. The number of children in school for that period also increased by over 5,000,000.

Illiteracy among adults has also received the serious attention of the Education Ministry, which is working out a six-year plan to fight it. Last year 12,000,000 grown-up people learned to read and write, and more than 4,300,000 copies of the special textbooks for mass education were distributed. In addition to the formal educational method, Chinese educators following the precedent of other countries, are employing the radio and the films to reach the masses.

Confucius

The birthday of Confucius was celebrated quietly this year. On account of the disturbing news that is continually pouring in from the mother country, the Chinese community in Malaya, with due consideration for their compatriots who are either fighting in the war or are suffering in consequence of it, deemed it necessary to withhold from public celebrations. If the doctrine of this great sage is universally practised, the world would be spared from many struggles. At least the present one would not have happened.

Probably no man has been so condemned during his lifetime, and at the same time so worshipped by posterity, as Confucius. His standard of morality was high, and his doctrines were pure. Had he, therefore, had an opportunity of exercising authority, it could but have resulted in good to an age when the notions of right and wrong were strangely confused, and when public and private morality were at the lowest ebb.

On the other hand, it is difficult to understand the secret of the extraordinary influence he has gained over posterity, and the more the problem is studied the more incomprehensible does it become, when viewed from the European standpoint. His system of philosophy, though incomplete, has supplied the guiding principles which have actuated the performance of all that is great and noble in the life of China for more than twenty centuries.

North China Riches

In an article published in the "China Critic," Mr. Poellu Dai thoughtfully analyses the North China situation, giving the reasons why Japan is so determined to lay hold of the five northern provinces of Hopei, Chahar, Suiyuen, Shanxi, and Shantung. The reasons are more economic than political, because the richness of these provinces is well-known to the Japanese, and once they have got possession of them, they shall be more than self-sufficing. The following statistics is quoted by the writer:

"These provinces occupy an area of about 400,000 square miles of very fertile soil and constitute an economic unit of vital importance. In agriculture, this region contributes 40 per cent. of the wheat production of China, 51 per cent. of the Kaoliang, 37 per cent. of the peanuts, 56 per cent. of the millet, and 37 per cent. of the maize. With the exception of rice, the production of the staple crops in this area amounts to over one-third of the total outputs of the country."

"Over 90 per cent. of China's wool and upwards of 34 per cent. of cotton are produced in these provinces. Of minerals, 70 per cent. of the coal deposits of the country and 40 per cent. of the iron ores are found. In regard to foreign trade, the importance of Tientsin as a commercial centre is second only to Shanghai."

"According to the statistics for 1935 compiled by the Maritime Customs, the trade in the six ports of North China constituted 28 per cent. of the figure of the entire country. With respect to national income, North China contributes annually approximately 70 millions of the customs revenue, 42 millions of the salt revenue and 15 millions from the consolidated taxes; thus over 20 per cent. of China's revenue is derived from these provinces."

Upon the basis of these figures, one can with fair accuracy surmise the significant importance of North China to the economic existence of the country.

replies do not manifest enthusiasm for the American programme.

Of interest to us is the reply from Japan. It is a "dandy" and a "daisy" of diplomacy. Japan states its "concordance with the principles," but adds that the objectives will be attained in regard to the Far Eastern situation only "by a full recognition and practical consideration of the actual, particular circumstances of that region."

If that reply means anything, which we doubt, then it means that the best arbiter on the subject of peace in the Pacific and in Asia is Japan. Presumably that nation is possessed of a monopoly of wisdom. What an unpleasant state of affairs, what supreme conceit, and what moral isolation!

Meanwhile, China, being a contributing and constituent member of the League of Nations, has with every justification, referred the present Sino-Japanese dispute to that august if somewhat impotent body.

It is more than a month ago that it was stated on behalf of the Government of Japan that it in no way considered the League of Nations competent to adjudicate on the Sino-Japanese crisis. Well, after what the Lytton report of the League of Nations said about Japan in connection with the filching of Manchuria from China, it is not very surprising that Japan should regard the League with a certain amount of distrust—but that distrust could never be as deep and as stinging as the distrust of the League for Japan. Japan is not, of course, a member of the League of Nations. She resigned when that body shouted her peridy to the world after the Manchurian investigation. Even to this day there are nations which do not recognise the puppet Government of "Manchukuo," and Britain is one of those nations.

Now comes Ambassador Kawagoe's very guarded statement. It seems to us that Japan would be quite willing to co-operate with other Powers in the settlement of the present Sino-Japanese conflict—providing the co-operating Powers were willing to agree to the Japanese terms of settlement.

That is what we think the game is, and we hope—and we are confident in our hoping—that China won't play.

60 BRITISH, FRENCH DESTROYERS WILL GUARD MEDITERRANEAN MERCHANTMEN

RUSSIA NOT TAKING PART IN PATROL

DETAILS OF NYON PLAN

Invitation To Italy

London, Sept. 13.

The Nine-Power Conference which assembled at Nyon on Friday reached full agreement late on Saturday night on a scheme to prevent further piratical attacks on neutral merchantmen in the Mediterranean and there are good grounds for expecting that this defensive plan will be set in motion about the middle of the current week.

Earlier proposals contemplated a patrol system whereby each participating Power would be responsible for a particular zone. They were dropped on the ground that they called for too great a contribution from the smaller Powers concerned.

A new scheme which has secured unanimous adoption and the text of which is to-day being communicated to the Italian and German Governments has been referred by the delegates to their respective Governments and it is anticipated their necessary approval will be received at Geneva within the next twenty-four hours and that possibly to-morrow, but certainly by Wednesday, the agreement will be formally signed at Nyon. Experts are confident that this joint security plan will end the intolerable situation which has developed in the Mediterranean.

PLAN DETAILS

Details of the plan are as follows:

Great Britain and France will co-operate in patrolling the main Mediterranean mercantile routes principally the Suez, Gibraltar, Dardanelles, North Africa, Marseilles. The two countries will provide at least sixty destroyers between them. Great Britain contributing rather more than half the number.

The eastern Mediterranean States represented will police their own territorial waters and will co-operate in such police work among themselves. They will, moreover, provide on request such help as they can in the main work of the Mediterranean patrol and will allow patrolling warships to use certain of their ports.

Russia will not take part in the Mediterranean patrol.

Italy is to be invited by Great Britain and France to join in the work of patrol in furtherance of the Conference on Friday.

If piracy were to spread to the Black Sea the Powers bordering that sea would co-operate among themselves to stop it.

The agreement will contain a statement of instructions to patrolling Powers which provide that Naval forces of the Powers taking part will open fire to sink any submarine which attacks a non-Spanish merchant ship if such attack is contrary to the rules of International Law as laid down by the London Naval Treaty of 1930. This Treaty provided that before sinking a merchant vessel the submarine must secure the safety of its crew and passengers and papers.

Naval forces will fire to sink not only any submarines seen in the act of attacking but any seen near an attacked ship in circumstances which give valid ground for belief that the submarine was guilty of the attack in question. In none of these special measures for in the agreement itself do the Governments intend any concession to either of the Spanish parties of the right to exercise belligerent rights. To avoid any mistakes or difficulties no submarine of any participating Power will be put to sea in the Mediterranean unless a surface vessel is at her side or unless in certain areas she is taking part in exercises.

The Powers will not allow any foreign submarines to enter their territorial waters unless in urgent distress or unless accompanied by a surface vessel.

STRATEGIC CHINESE WITHDRAWAL

Greater Difficulties Will Confront Japanese

Shanghai, September 13: Events in the Shanghai area moved dramatically to-day which marked the beginning of the second month of hostilities. The Japanese flag now flies over the Chinese Municipal buildings in the Civic Centre and according to admissions by Chinese spokesmen both in Shanghai and Nanking the Chinese forces have completed their withdrawal to the first line of defence.

The second line of defence, often described as China's Hindenburg Line, is parallel to the North Station and Lotien sector stretching as it does from Nanshiang on the Shanghai-Nanking Railway, ten miles west of Shanghai, to Kiating.

An official Chinese statement issued from Military Headquarters, Nanking, states that the withdrawal was decided last night after the Chinese forces, with their temporary defence works, had withstood three weeks of merciless attack from land, sea and air. The withdrawal was completed to-day in the most orderly manner and without losses.

Chinese circles opine that the new lines will afford better co-ordination of the Chinese units in the various sectors and held to avoid the gun fire from Japanese warships.

Foreign observers all along expected a Chinese withdrawal and were surprised that it had not occurred earlier and regards it not as signifying the collapse of Chinese resistance, but as a genuinely strategic withdrawal which would enable the Chinese to put up even severer resistance against the Japanese.

The further the Chinese withdrawal the greater will be the difficulties of the Japanese who will find themselves in country difficult for the operation of mechanized units in which they are so much superior to the Chinese.

Whether the danger to the Settlement and French Concession will be increased or diminished by this latest development remains to be seen.—Reuter.

CHINA WAR ITEMS

It is reported that an American doctor in Canton has purchased $50,000 worth of liberty bonds. Altogether $6,000,000 of these bonds have been taken out.

The present war is costing Japan more than five billion yen. At present there are 380,000 Japanese troops in China but by December they will have 1,000,000.

TO INVEST $100,000

At a meeting of the Chinese Club yesterday evening it was decided to invest the sum of $100,000 in the Chinese National Government by purchasing Chinese National Bonds. The members unanimously agreed that the money for the Clubhouse funds be paid for the purchase of the bonds. Members present included Mr. Kwan Tso-yiu (Chairman) Hon. Mr. M. K. JAPANESE WARSHIP SUNK IN SOUTH

BY CANTON PLANES

Nanking, Sept. 13: Japanese naval forces blockading the South China coast suffered a severe blow this morning at 10 o'clock when a squadron of Chinese bombers from the Canton airfield bombed a fleet of Japanese warships off Kwangchowwan, sinking one and seriously damaging several others, according to information from the Chinese Air Force Headquarters here.

The Chinese airmen caught the Japanese warships entirely by surprise, releasing dozens of bombs at point blank range on the warships off the southern Kwangtung coast and east of the French leased territory of Kwangchowwan.

A number of Chinese bombs scored direct hits, flames belching from the damaged warships shortly after the bombs were seen to explode on the vessels, it is reported.

One of the warships struck turned over and sank within a short time.

The raid was so totally unexpected that the warships had no opportunity to turn anti-aircraft or machine-guns on the raiding bombers.—Central News.

NAVY UNWILLING TO AFFORD PROTECTION WHEN BRITISH FLAG IS USED MERELY AS CAMOUFLAGE

Vessel Forbidden To Leave Gibraltar

London, September 13.

The "Daily Express" reports that the former Greek steamer Jenny, which had been previously registered as a British vessel, has now been forbidden to leave Gibraltar, before she is definitely registered as a British vessel.

The Jenny, on her passage through the Straits of Gibraltar, had been halted by a Nationalist Spanish cruiser, but was permitted to proceed, under the condition that she put in at Gibraltar. It is stated that the SOS calls sent out by the Jenny on being stopped, were ignored by the British Naval authorities.

According to the report the Jenny is bound for Valencia with a cargo of cotton from Leningrad. Commenting on the detention in Gibraltar of the Jenny, the "Daily Express" is of the opinion that the Gibraltar authorities, who always held that ships of doubtful nationality were responsible for the tension prevailing in the Mediterranean, are creating a warning for other ships of doubtful nationality, that the British Navy is not willing to afford protection, when the British flag is used merely as a camouflage for dubious activities.—Transocean.

THE QUEEN MARY'S INSURANCE

MARKET RISKS INCREASED BY £170,000. PREMIUM FOR SISTER SHIP

Marine risks on the Queen Mary have been renewed by the Board of Trade for a second period of 12 months, but as the amount of insurance taken by the market increased by £170,000 the Board were called upon to provide cover for £1,630,000 only.

During the construction of the Queen Mary claims for damage amounting to over £4,000 were made, states a White Paper issued dealing with the Cunard Insurance Fund Account for the year ended March, 1937.

The Board of Trade's share amounted to £1,621, and a claim in respect of damage to turbines during speed trials, of which the Board's share was £3,494, has been admitted and paid.

The total charge on the fund in respect of construction risks was £568, compared with £33,023 received in premiums. Premiums amounting to £23,062 were received.

In respect of the insurance of the Queen Mary against marine risks for a period of 12 months, covering an insurance of £1,800,000 out of a total of £4,800,000.

The Board have received notice of claims for damage estimated at £10,000 sustained by the ship on three voyages. The claims are reducible a £1,000 franchise for each voyage, and, if admitted, fall to be borne by the fund and by the other insurers in proportion to the amounts of insurance provided.

The Board have provided insurance against construction risks in respect of the Queen Mary's sister ship "552" in a sum of £740,000, insurances having been placed on the open market for £3,760,000 out of £4,500,000, the value of the vessel for insurance purposes. The premium of £10,296 covers a period of three years from January 30; the date on which the laying of the keel of the vessel was completed.

THE "BUTTERFLY" BAN SHOULD BE LIFTED

Britain's International Swimmers Handicapped

Controversy over the "Butterfly" breast-stroke has been brought to a head after John Davies, the English champion, had put up such a fine performance using this style recently, writes the "News of the World" special correspondent.

The "Butterfly" was born a few years ago in America. For the past two years it has caused a tremendous amount of controversy in English swimming circles owing to the A.S.A.'s action in banning the stroke after the International Federation had decided it was permissible. The new stroke differs vastly from the orthodox style, which has been so popular, inasmuch as the arms are recovered above the surface of the water instead of below.

It is more or less a cross between breaststroke swimming and the crawl. The ordinary breaststroke leg kick is used, but the arm stroke may be described as a "double crawl". The arms are hauled forward above the water and are brought back with a downward thrust well past the shoulders. Some bring the arms back to the thighs when they are recovered in a similar style to the crawl.

Almost as soon as one stroke is finished so the other is started, thus doing away with the glide, which is one of the features of breast-stroke swimming. All the gracefulness of the old stroke is lost, and the movement becomes much more jerky. There is however, no doubt about the "Butterfly" being a big improvement as far as speed is concerned.

England is the only country in the world that has placed a ban on the "Butterfly" breast-stroke, and consequently our swimmers are labouring under a big handicap. To gain perfection in "Butterfly" swimming needs plenty of practice to develop certain muscles as in the crawl—and what is the use of practising if they are not allowed to use the stroke.

Many world records have been established with the use of the "Butterfly," yet the A.S.A. still persists in holding out against the rest of the world. The ruling of the International Federation that the stroke is permissible is final, and it will not alter its decision. I cannot see how it could do so now that records have been made with it.

The A.S.A. should see eye to eye with the F.I.N.A., for it is placing our swimmers under a big handicap, especially as the stroke will be used in all future international contests, including the Empire Games in Sydney next year. It was openly stated, about two years ago, that the "Butterfly" breast-stroke was only a passing phase and would soon die. All I can say is that, like Charles II, it is a long time a-dying.

ARE WOMEN A MENACE TO CRICKET?

(To The Editor of The "London Morning Post")

Sir,—I have played cricket for more than forty years and spent countless days watching first-class matches. I confess I did not altogether approve of women's cricket until I saw them play this year, when I was both astonished and entertained.

I am glad to see that such eminent old cricketers as Mr. Leveson-Gower, Mr. "Gerry" Weigall, and Mr. R. N. R. Blaker have become firm admirers of these wonderful girl players.

Mr. E. V. Lucas (an acknowledged authority on cricket), in a "Punch" article, "Next Woman In" writes as follows: "Those of us who have been cultivating a slightly derisive attitude to women's cricket in general and our Australian visitors in particular, will have to eat the pie that is humble. Since visiting the Oval on June 12 I have myself consumed several slices of it; for they play exceedingly well, these women cricketers. . . . The team from Australia were as dauntless and accurate as any men could be."

Women's cricket will go on and flourish despite the indignant vapourings of a few disgruntled males.

SHANGHAI SITUATION

Shanghai, Sept. 12.

The district around Footing was bombed to-day by Japanese planes. Their air force and artillery also attacked Chapel, and as a result numerous fires were started, several of which were in the immediate vicinity of the International Settlement.

Following bitter fighting, the Japanese forces were driven back after their attempt to break through the Chinese lines in the village of Yanghang.

According to a Japanese report which, however, has not been confirmed by the Chinese, the Japanese troops succeeded in entering Yanghang in the evening and their vanguard is advancing in a westerly direction, along the highway to Lihuang.

It is regarded as probable that the Chinese will withdraw their forces to Lihuang where strong fortifications have been constructed between Lihuang and Taihang. From Chinese headquarters it is reported that the Japanese brought about 100 pieces of heavy artillery into action in the fight for possession of Yanghang and that the village was completely destroyed.

It is observed that the Japanese have altered their tactics and are no longer attempting to break through the Chinese lines by infantry charges. They are now resorting to systematic artillery barrages and air bombardments, withholding the infantry charges until the enemy positions are destroyed.

This change is perhaps due to the fact that the Japanese succeeded in landing a large consignment of artillery during the past few days.

Comparative calm prevailed in the Lufao and Lotien sectors to-day, the Japanese concentrating their efforts to the Yenpo and Yanghang districts in an attempt to advance in this section of their front.

LARWOOD SUSPENDED FOR REST OF SEASON

Breach Of Discipline Alleged

Harold Larwood, the England and Nottinghamshire bowler, was suspended on August 24 by the committee of the Nottinghamshire County Cricket Club for the remainder of the season.

Captain H. A. Brown, secretary of the Notts C.C.C., issued the following official statement: "By a resolution of the committee, Larwood was suspended for the remainder of the season on account of a breach of discipline."

Captain Brown and Mr. D. McCraith, chairman of the club, declined to say anything further.

LARWOOD'S STORY

In an interview, Larwood said:

"I went down to the ground on Saturday to report fit and expect-

BETTER VALUE THAN EVER

The Gillette No. 77 Set illustrated here, which contains the latest Gillette razor, three Blue Gillette slotted blades and two blade holders in a new type of moulded box, has these definite advantages.

The razor is made in two pieces instead of three, as formerly, thus making it easier and quicker to clean, assemble and use.

The blades are made by the new electrical-tampering process. They give not only closer, cleaner shaves than you have ever had before, but also more shaves per blade.

The case is ideal for hot and humid climates as it is so easy to keep clean.

Ask your dealer to show you a No. 77 Set—one of the most popular that Gillette have ever made.

Woman Cricketer Replies To
R.W.V. Robins"THOUSANDS PAY TO SEE US PLAY"

Marjorie Pollard (former Captain of the England Women's Cricket Team) writes in the London "Morning Post" as follows:—

Mr. R. W. V. Robins, England's Test captain and Middlesex skipper, is reported in a Sunday newspaper to have said that:

He does not approve of women's cricket;

Refuses to have anything to do with it;

Thinks women should not use a hard ball if they do play; and that

Cricket is a man's game, anyway.

I have been in team games all my life; I have played hockey for England and all over Europe since 1921; I have played cricket ever since there was cricket for women to play; and I have taught in schools and colleges and think I know the value of team games.

Why just because a game is played with a hard ball would Mr. Robins deny us the right to play this, the greatest of all team games? Does Mr. Robins not believe that team games are really preferable to individual games? Would he have small boys play cricket with a soft ball?

Is it that he fears we shall get hurt? If so, we appreciate his tender concern for our welfare. Or is it that he wants to keep the ability to play with so fierce a thing as a cricket ball to himself and his own kind?

KEENER THAN MEN

Already more than 50,000 people (this is fact, not fiction) have paid to see the Australian women play cricket in England. These are all cricket lovers who would watch county cricket if it were good to see.

The general consensus of opinion is that

The game is suitable for women as played by women;

Women are as keen, if not keener, about it than men;

They have ability for the game; and

There is now a definite public asking for and demanding women's cricket.

For confirmation of all this why not consult newspapers of repute and see what they all said about the final Test match at the Oval. Are they all wrong and is Mr. Robins right?

Not one of us wants to play cricket with Mr. Robins or against Mr. Robins. We believe that women should play games against women. We do not say of him that we dislike his manner or his style at billiards, or the way he minds his own business. He plays his game, as far as we are concerned when and where he likes. All we ask is that we be allowed to do the same. It is only fair to Mr. Robins to point out that he stated that the words attributed to him did not accurately represent his views.

SEVEN WICKETS
FOR GODDARDLancashire Well
Beaten

Making full use of a wicket which took spin, Goddard carried all before him at Gloucester and was mainly responsible for Gloucestershire beating Lancashire by 215 runs. Lancashire were always fighting a losing battle, and although they did well for a time their last seven wickets went down for 70 runs.

In the morning Crapp and Sinfield increased Gloucestershire's total by 73 in 50 minutes before the home county declared and set Lancashire the task of scoring 402 in four and a half hours. Sinfield during the course of his innings completed 1,000 runs and became the fourth player this season to complete the double.

Lancashire lost their first wicket with a single on the board, but for a time Goddard and Sinfield failed to make the ball turn quickly enough to trouble the batsmen. Paynter and Place raised the total to 89, but after luncheon wickets fell at regular intervals, only Iddon facing Goddard with confidence. Iddon batted an hour and a quarter and again showed a splendid defence. Goddard, who took seven wickets for less than 10 runs apiece, received gallant support in the field. Crapp and Parker making brilliant catches.

SIR ABE BAILEY
WINS GIMCRACK

Regrets Objection

Sir Abe Bailey won the Gimcrack Stakes at York recently with Golden Sovereign.

The race was one of surprises, for the winner, who passed the post almost locked together with the Aga Khan's Tahir, a 3 to 1 on favourite, and Mr. Ellison's True Mate, was objected to.

The objection was raised by C. Smirke, who rode Tahir, but the stewards fined Nevett, who rode True Mate, for not keeping a straight course and confirmed the placing of the winner, whose price was 6 to 1.

As a result of his success Sir Abe Bailey will be the guest of honour at the Gimcrack dinner held at York in December.

He expressed regret that one of his horses had been concerned in an objection.

"I am sorry," he said, "that there was an objection. I have been racing for 51 years in South Africa, and 44 in England, and never objected."

Sir Abe, who recently had a leg amputated and is now recuperating at Shadwell Court, Bedford, hopes to attend the dinner.

"Having a leg off make it difficult to make a speech," he said. "Perhaps I shall not be able to speak, but I am anxious to attend."

ITALY WINS—WITH BRITISH ENGINES

Duce's Son 3rd In Air Race

Italy roared home 1, 2 and 3 in the recent Marseilles-Damascus-Paris air race, and Germany scored a double success in the Ulster Grand Prix motor-cycle race over the Clady Circuit, near Belfast.

But the Italians won in planes fitted with Bristol Peaguss air-cooled engines—and the winning German machines at Belfast were both ridden by Britons.

According to British United Press, Bruno Mussolini didn't win the air race because propeller trouble forced him and his co-pilot to land for thirty minutes at Sesto Calende, near Sirena.

Placings and times were:—

1. Cupini and Baradelli (Savola Marchetti), 17 h. 32 m. 45 1-5 s.

2. Fiori and Luchini (Savola Marchetti), 17 h. 57 m. 2-5 s.

3. Bisea and Mussolini (Savola Marchetti), 18 h. 3m. 37 1-5 s.

Fourth home was a Briton—

Flying-Officer Clouston, in the D.H. Comet with which Scott and Black won the England-Australia air race three years ago.

BRITON'S ESCAPE

Clouston revealed that he had had a narrow escape after the race was over.

"Once we had to come down low owing to ice formation on the wings over the Swiss Alps and that was almost the end of us."

In the Ulster Grand Prix J. M. West, on a B.M.W., was first in the 500 c.c. class, his speed being 91.64 m.p.h. The other victory for Germany was achieved in the 250 c.c. race by E. R. Thomas on a D.K.W. with an average speed of 81.83 m.p.h.

Out of respect for their former No. 1 rider, Jimmy Guthrie, who was killed in a recent race in Germany, the official Norton team did not compete.

NEXT YEAR'S CELEBRATIONS
IN SYDNEYPrizes For Big Game
Fishing

Prizes totalling £1,000 will be awarded for the international big game fishing competition to be staged from January 1 to April 23. The competition will coincide with the 1938 Anniversary celebrations. The list of prizes, announced by Mr. E. J. Harrison, M.H.R., a member of the 150th Anniversary Celebrations Council, includes:—

£500 for the heaviest game fish caught during the competition—swordfish.

£100 heaviest striped marlin.

£200 heaviest shark, other than a blue pointer or mako.

£25 heaviest tunny over 100 lb.

£25 heaviest light game fish caught on 6-cord line.

£25 heaviest game fish caught on 12-cord line.

In addition, the committee has recommended that £125 be set aside for the issue of coloured certificates to all competitors capturing swordfish, marlin, blue pointer or other sharks.

It is also proposed that certificates be issued to the winners of all classes of fishing, and for "meritorious catches." According to present plans, the contest will be conducted all round the coast of Australia to a distance of not more than 50 miles out. The question of extending the area to Lord Howe Island, however, is under consideration. Of the £1,000 prize money, said Mr. Harrison, £500 would be provided by the Celebrations Council, and £500 by the Big Game Fishing Committee formed in Sydney.

NO. 10 TO BE
MODERNISEDRepairs To Cost
£13,000

Some surprise was caused recently by the inclusion in Supplementary Civil Estimates of the following item:

"No. 10, Downing-street: Works to provide additional accommodation and improvements to heating and lighting installations £13,000."

M.P.s, recalling alterations to their own homes at the cost of a few hundred pounds, were mystified as to how so large a sum could be spent in a single house.

Actually, those who are familiar with the interior of No. 10, and have some expert knowledge of internal decoration in old houses, emphasise that the cost is moderate. The main expense is involved by extensive structural alterations to the domestic and office quarters, which are out of date and inadequate.

SAVING IN THE LONG RUN

Improvements to heating and lighting amid the architectural chaos which characterises the interior of No. 10, it is pointed out, would inevitably be extremely costly. Old walls through which new pipes must pass will need to be replastered, and any tampering with the electric wiring system in a house of such antiquity will involve drastic excavations into the internal structure.

One prominent architect in Parliament was able to recall other instances in London where far more had been spent on work of this kind in houses of similar size.

It is emphasised that the outlay of £13,000 at this point will mean a considerable saving in the long run; and may, incidentally, help to relieve the traditional gloom and forbidding appearance of the Prime Minister's home.

Lord Tweedsmuir
Crosses The Arctic Circle

Ottawa, Canada—Following the practice of Father Neptune to challenge the rights of passengers to cross the equator, that old estimated character, Santa Claus, has decided to do likewise at the entrance to his realm of the North Pole. When His Excellency, Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor General of Canada, recently crossed the Arctic Circle, while making a tour of the Canadian northland, he was challenged by Father Christmas himself. After His Excellency had been able to satisfy King Santa Claus as to his identity, he was greeted and welcomed to the North. The vice-regal ship was boarded by Santa Claus and his retinue as it sailed up the Mackenzie River, in the North West Territories of Canada with Aklavik on the Arctic Ocean as its destination.

Gay, in the colourful robes of the Christmas character, a member of the Hudson's Bay Company, hailed the ship and challenged the right of the Captain to proceed. After a ceremony, which rivalled that which takes place when crossing the Equator, each member of the vice-regal party was presented with a signed copy of a proclamation of welcome to the North and the party ended in a happy note with champagne all around.

On his return from the Arctic the Governor General proposes to fly back to the rail-head.

means of transportation. This northern service is on a par with any in the world. By the use of a trans-continental air service, mail, express and even passenger service across the Dominion will be greatly speeded up.

The extent of the proposed service is so great that careful planning and preparation in all details must be made before actual service can be begun. Necessary equipment including planes of the latest type suitable for carrying mail, express and passengers, as well as the establishment of ground stations, landing fields and other details are all being looked after. Training of the personnel including pilots and radio experts is proceeding now and will continue for some months to come.

Air Service Extension In Canada

Ottawa, Canada—After partaking of an early breakfast at Montreal, a party consisting of Hon. C.D. Howe, Canadian Minister of Transport, and officials of the newly organized, Trans-Canada Air Lines, recently flew across Canada in 17 hours and 11 minutes arriving at Vancouver in time for dinner and a game of golf before dark. The flight, covering nearly 3,000 miles from Canada's eastern metropolis to the Pacific Coast, was in the nature of a survey flight for the proposed regular Trans-Canada Air Lines service.

The proposed cross-Canada air service will be another step in the extensive air service which supplies Canada with additional means of transportation. It is proposed that the new service will link up with the service now being organized across the Atlantic Ocean. The Trans-Canada Air Lines comes under the authority of the Department of Transport by Act of Parliament. Like the Canadian National Railway Company, with which it is closely connected, the Air Lines will be a government-owned organization, operating under private management.

The extensive use of airplanes in Canada has greatly assisted in developing mines in the outlying districts. This particularly applies to the north country where the areas are not served by other means of transportation. This northern service is on a par with any in the world. By the use of a trans-continental air service, mail, express and even passenger service across the Dominion will be greatly speeded up.

The extent of the proposed service is so great that careful planning and preparation in all details must be made before actual service can be begun. Necessary equipment including planes of the latest type suitable for carrying mail, express and passengers, as well as the establishment of ground stations, landing fields and other details are all being looked after. Training of the personnel including pilots and radio experts is proceeding now and will continue for some months to come.

"China Unconquerable"

Equally dominant is Mrs. Chiang Kai-shek, who, unlike her sister, makes copious use of cosmetics, but disdains personal publicity. American-educated, business-like, beautiful Mrs. Chiang is a determining factor in Chinese politics.

When last year's end Chiang was kidnapped by rebellious Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, his wife took complete direction of affairs, flew north to the kidnappers' lair at Sian and handled the whole affair so well that she was able to present her husband with liberty.

The third daughter of old Charlie Soong is another American University product. She gives Minister-husband Kung the benefit of her experience and played no small part in helping him to secure recently from London a loan of £20,000,000 for the Chinese Government.

Well-polished, suave and efficient are the three Soong sons, who between them control a fair share of China's developing industry and commerce. Their authority among Chinese merchants is unquestioned and their studied opinions are invariably moulded into national policy.

CHIANG CONFIDENT

Carefully have the Soong maidens, their brothers and Chiang Kai-shek examined the potential strength of Japan's Army. Though they have no illusions about their own forces, they concluded that Japan, in the military sense, cannot be reckoned a first-class Power.

Against the Japanese tradition of victorious battles, Chinese generals record the fact that her opponents have always been badly organised. At ill-equipped, ill-trained Chinese force smashed their morale at Shanghai. There the 19th Route Army for weeks held up the Jap steam-roller, stood up to the full force of a large-scale combined military and naval attack.

Now China's forces are ten times stronger. While a Russian demonstration on the Manchurian border can immobilise half the Japanese Army, Chinese stiffened by 250,000 well-equipped troops of the Mao Tse-tung's Red Army, are counted on to put up a good resistance to any invaders.—(News Review).

Divorced Wives' Maintenance

No Claim To One-Third Of Husband's Income

A warning to women who, after obtaining a divorce, consider they are entitled to one-third of the husband's income, was addressed by the President, Sir Boyd Merziman, in the Divorce Court recently.

His Lordship was hearing a summons by a woman against her former husband for arrears of maintenance.

"I have had occasion, before now," he said, "to speak about the supposed rigidity of the one-third rule. I want to emphasise again that there is no such rule, and that women petitioners will be well advised to cut their applications for maintenance according to the cloth which is available."

"A great many of the judgment summonses which come before me, in my opinion, the result of driving people to desperation. It is impossible to ignore the circumstances created by a second marriage of the husband, and I hope that what I am saying will impress upon people that it is futile to press for the rigid application of a rule which is not a rule at all."

His Lordship added that he was not referring in particular to the case then before him.

JAPANESE NORTHERN ARMY RETREATING

Nanking, Sept. 13. It is reported that the newly organized 8th Route Army under the command of the ex-communist leader Chu Teh is advancing in the direction of Kalgan.

Dreading the approach of Chu Teh's army of seasoned and fearless fighters, it is reported that the Japanese troops are beating a hasty retreat.—Chinese Evening Press.

One of the problems confronting early civilisation, we are told, was what to use for money. We'd rather know the solution ourselves.

DECISION ON BALLAST VOYAGES

In accordance with their policy of keeping the market adequately supplied with tonnage the Tramp Shipping Administrative Committee decided recently that vessels which were able to give down to October 31 cancelling by proceeding in ballast might now be chartered from Argentina or Uruguay with a cancelling date not later than October 31 next. This announcement carries on the series of grants of liberty to proceed in ballast to the South American countries named. The last announcement was made on July 28 and extended the cancelling date from August 31 to Sept. 30. As, roughly, the voyage of a cargo vessel from Europe to the River Plate may be estimated to require about a month, there is ample time for ships to be chartered and to be ready to load in the Plate by the end of October.

Hitherto the extension of the freedom has led to no weakening at all of the homeward grain rates for the reason that shipping generally is so well employed and such varied opportunities for charters are available that there is no keen competition among owners for homeward freights in the trade. During recent weeks the buying of considerable quantities of maize by Germany and the consequent chartering of tonnage have assisted in the maintenance of the homeward grain rates on a very firm basis, and during the last few days further transactions of the kind have taken place.

REMAINING FORM OF CONTROL

Since the minimum rates of freight which were agreed by the Tramp Shipping Administrative Committee have long been much exceeded by the actual rates paid in the market the regulation of ballasting voyages remains as the only form of control which has been desirable to exercise lately, and this regulation has been exercised lightly and skilfully and with full regard to the needs of the grain trade.

At the moment, with tonnage well spread in different routes, there may seem little risk of the heavy accumulation of tonnage in the River Plate, but there was congestion early last year and since then at times the relationship between supply and demand has needed to be studied carefully. Accumulation of tonnage, owing to one cause or another, or to a combination of causes, has been directly responsible for much of the unremunerative character of rates in the past.

The control has been so helpful to owners that it would seem sensible to continue such a system in future.—The "Times."

Duke Of Gloucester's Dog Killed

The Duke of Gloucester's black Aberdeen terrier, Dougal, has been killed by a falling tree in the grounds of Royal Pavillion, the Duke's home at Alderhot.

SHANGHAI INSURANCE SITUATION

An extraordinary situation has arisen in the insurance of goods for China against war risks. Owing to the diversion of shipping from Shanghai and the obscurity of the whole situation at Northern China ports there has been little insurance on offer on merchandise bound to the disturbed area, says the "Manchester Guardian."

The fixed scale of rates for covering war risks on cargo bound to China and Japan remains unaltered, but only the risk whilst the goods are on the ocean is covered, the rates varying from £3 per cent. for Shanghai and Yangtze ports to 2s. 6d. per cent. for Hong Kong. Cargo bound for Japanese ports is rated at 2s. 6d. per cent., with an additional 5s. per cent. for the risk before shipment or for 15 days after discharge. All these rates are supplementary to those fixed under the general war risk schedule.

While new business is almost at a standstill, there is some anxiety about recent insurances. Up to August 20 underwriters were covering cargo at Shanghai and other Chinese ports for the period before loading and for 15 days after discharge, and the rates for these risks were as high as £10 per cent. for Shanghai. The reports of widespread damage by war perils raise fears that much cargo still at risk under those insurances may have been destroyed or seriously damaged. Not until all policies covering cargo on shore have expired can underwriters rely upon the more recent provision restricting the cover of war-risk policies to the voyage, so that it will be September 5 before they are entirely free from liability on goods on shore.

PROPERTY INSURANCE

As for permanent property in the danger area, the situation is equally obscure. Last December Lloyd's underwriters and the insurance companies agreed not to insure stationary property on shore against war risks. In consequence only property insured against war risks under policies current at that date and still unexpired is protected by insurance. Otherwise the property must be at the owner's risk, and the only source of compensation will be whichever party in the dispute is responsible for the damage, and the difficulty of establishing such responsibility, great though it be, would be nothing to that of obtaining compensation, as past experience has shown.

Moreover, damage done by modern weapons to a concentration of property could easily be such as to involve insurers in liabilities far beyond their resources, even taking the vast wealth of the English insurance market into consideration.

While foresters were preparing to fell the tree, Dougal was searching for rabbits and as the trunk was cut through he ran towards it and the tree fell on him.
